ABSTRACT

The development of digital technology in society has resulted in the transformation of digitalization of health services, so that the process of health services needs to be carried out electronically with the principles of security and confidentiality of data and information. At Bumiayu Public Health Center , where problems often occur some people who have queued do not get a patient queue number because of the limit of 250 patient quotas per day. With the research, a solution was found by designing a website-based patient quota booking application.
